15 TIPS TO BOOST YOUR TESTING SUCCESS

Revisit your testing practices and find new ways to make good things even better!

Based on some great suggestions we received from testing experts and PractiTest users, here are 15 tips you can implement today to boost your team’s success.
STOP MAKING ASSUMPTIONS ON WHAT YOU NEED TO TEST
Ask your management what information they need and when they need it, then use this information to plan your testing accordingly. You'd be surprised to see how much of these requirements you were missing!

ANALYZE YOUR ESCAPING DEFECTS
This will help you measure how good your testing and development are. Understand whether a bug that escaped to production was actually detected but wrongly deferred, missed by your testing efforts, or even a design bug.

THROW AWAY 20% OF YOUR TEST CASES
Choose all the old and unneeded tests that no one runs or that are not finding any issues. Focus your work on the correct tests.

ENHANCE COLLABORATION BETWEEN TESTERS AND PROGRAMMERS
Schedule pair-testing sessions with your programmers and make sure your testers participate in code walkthrough sessions with your development.

INVOLVE EVERYONE IN TESTING
Schedule “company testing days” where everyone from the CEO to the HR participate in testing tasks before releasing a product.

PractiTest
http://www.practitest.com/
SET UP A COLLABORATION PROGRAM WITH YOUR CUSTOMER SUPPORT
Help your testers understand what hurts users, and let your support team know what information they can provide to improve the testing process.

ENCOURAGE LEARNING AND KNOWLEDGE SHARING
Schedule Brown Bag Meetings once a month to learn about new ideas and development in the world of testing.

EQUIP YOUR TESTERS WITH THE RIGHT TOOLS FOR THEIR WORK
Get each of them a second screen, a good set of headphones, and nice notebook to take notes before, during, and after their testing.

RECOGNIZE THE CONTRIBUTION OF INDIVIDUAL TESTERS
Set up a “Testing Ninja of the Month” event where you recognize individuals for their contributions to the team.

SHARE REPORTS THAT SPEAK TO ALL STAKEHOLDERS
Design your report with the busy executive in mind: use visual charts, summary tables, and highlight important takeaways.

http://www.practitest.com/
LEARN FROM YOUR PEERS
Send Team Leads and Senior Testers to visit other companies and get new ideas for things they can try to improve their own work.

MEASURE YOUR TESTING COVERAGE
Understand where you are testing too little or too much and improve your coverage from project to project.

ALWAYS ASK “WHAT CAN WE DO BETTER?”
Place a suggestion box or portal where people can bring forward ideas and vote on the most important ones.

GENERATE SELF-PRIDE IN TESTING AS A CAREER
Encourage your team members to collaborate with testing magazines, blogs and publications, and participate in testing contests and events.

CELEBRATE SUCCESS
Set up a “Kitchen Dashboard” or some other display where you post live information about your project and celebrate your team’s and company’s victories.

Idea!

http://www.practitest.com/
15 TIPS TO BOOST YOUR TESTING SUCCESS IN 2015

STOP MAKING ASSUMPTIONS ON WHAT YOU NEED TO TEST
Ask your management what information they need and when they need it, then use this information to plan your testing accordingly.

ANALYZE YOUR ESCAPING DEFECTS
This will help you measure how good your testing and development really are.

ENHANCE COLLABORATION BETWEEN TESTERS AND PROGRAMMERS
Schedule pair-testing sessions with your programmers and make sure your testers participate in code walkthrough sessions with your development.

SET UP A COLLABORATION PROGRAM WITH YOUR CUSTOMER SUPPORT
Help your testers understand what hurts users, and let your support team know what information they can provide to improve the testing process.

EQUIP YOUR TESTERS WITH THE RIGHT TOOLS FOR THEIR WORK
Get each of them a second screen, a good set of headphones, and nice notebook to take notes before, during, and after their testing.

SHARE REPORTS THAT SPEAK TO ALL STAKEHOLDERS
Design your report with the busy executive in mind: use visual charts, summary tables, and highlight important takeaways.

MEASURE YOUR TESTING COVERAGE
Understand where you are testing too little or too much and improve your coverage from project to project.

GENERATE SELF-PRIDE IN TESTING AS A CAREER
Encourage your team members to collaborate with testing magazines, blogs and publications, and participate in testing contests and events.

THROW AWAY 20% OF YOUR TEST CASES
Choose all the old and unneeded tests that no one runs or that are not finding any issues.

INVOLVE EVERYONE IN TESTING
Schedule “company testing days” where everyone from the CEO to the HR participate in testing tasks before releasing a product.

ENCOURAGE LEARNING AND KNOWLEDGE SHARING
Schedule Brown Bag Meetings once a month to learn about new ideas and development in the world of testing.

RECOGNIZE THE CONTRIBUTION OF INDIVIDUAL TESTERS
Set up a “Testing Ninja of the Month” event where you recognize individuals for their contributions to the team.

LEARN FROM YOUR PEERS
Send Team Leads and Senior Testers to visit other companies and get new ideas for things they can try to improve their own work.

ALWAYS ASK “WHAT CAN WE DO BETTER?”
Place a suggestion box or portal where people can bring forward ideas and vote on the most important ones.

CELEBRATE SUCCESS
Set up a “Kitchen Dashboard” or some other display where you post live information about your project and celebrate your team’s and company’s victories.

DID YOU LIKE IT?
Why not share with others?